The following is an essay written in 1902 by Lula Mae Worden as she graduated from Richwood High School, Richwood, OH. Lula was the daughter of the publisher of the Richwood Gazette. She later married O. A. Keigley and for many years she and her husband published the newspaper. Her elder daughter, Martha Keigley Moore, has shared this bit of history with us. She possesses the original.

"PIONEER DAYS OF RICHWOOD"

Seventy years ago Richwood was nothing more than a wilderness, containing a very small number of inhabitants, the greater part of it being owned by one man, Phillip Plummer.

This man in company with his brother and a young doctor settled in the "rich woods" and in August 1832 surveyed and platted the village.

Richwood's growth was rather slow, in 1840 there were only twenty families here but since then its growth has been more rapid and the inhabitants kept increasing until now there are nearly two thousand.

A rather amusing incident is told concerning the location of our present railroad. Essex was quite anxious to have the road run through there. A day was set for holding a meeting to decide this important question, a representative was selected from here and one from Essex, the man from Essex being a great talker stopped along the road on his way to the meeting and told the farmers what a great benefit this road would be to Essex and when he arrived at the meeting it was over and the decision had been made in favor of Richwood. Richwood has never let another get the advantage of her in that way and has gradually outstripped all of her competitors.

Merchandizing was carried on with greater difficulty in early days than it is now. The store was a place of exchange. Money being very scarce, the merchants had to take products in exchange for their goods and often found it troublesome to trade these products for goods.

The first store was opened in 1833 in a little log building on the lot now occupied by Farrier's harness shop. It was owned by Burdick and Calloway. They purchased their entire stock, which consisted of a few staple groceries and dry goods, at Marysville, and the entire stock was conveyed here in one load.

The mails were very scant and irregular during the early history of our village, but the postmaster disliked the idea of the bags starting out empty so if they contained no mail he would write a hasty communication to some friend and enclose it in the bag.

When we think of the hardships the pioneers of this section had to contend with in order to educate their children we should certainly feel thankful that we are thus permitted to complete our school days under such favorable circumstances.

If the sturdy pioneers of Richwood who were located here in 1832, 70 years ago, could step into this hall tonight and witness the scene of splendor as compared with the school days of their children it would surely make them feel grateful to an all-wise Providence for the many blessings bestowed upon us.

In those early days education had not reached a very high standard. The first school was taught by William Phillips in an unoccupied log cabin. It was conducted on the ordinary subscription plan, the compensation of the teacher being very small. He taught more for the honor than the money he received.

Later on the citizens saw the necessity of a school house and a small inconvenient log structure was built. In a few years this became too small and dilapidated to be occupied any longer; so school was held in several of the churches till 1850, when another small frame consisting of three rooms was built but the pupils became so numerous that it was necessary to erect a larger and more convenient one, so in 1875 the erection of the present one began and was completed in 1876.

It is a large, handsome, brick edifice containing eight departments: is surrounded by broad walks and lawns, presenting in a village the size of Richwood marked evidence of enterprise and prosperity.

In early times our corps of teachers were furnished by surrounding towns, but now we can boast that we furnish the majority of our own teachers and also supply many other towns with teachers.

In 1880 the first class graduated from our schools and started out to make their own way in the world. The class was small consisting of four pupils, two girls and two boys, Mary V. Finley, Julia Torrey, Edwin S. Gill and Frank Stubert. Imagine the feeling of pride these pupils must have had as they delivered the first orations in Richwood.

Where are the early pioneers of Richwood now? When we ask this question a feeling of sadness comes over us for not one of the first inhabitants remain, they have crossed from here to the shores of eternity.

This is a world of continual change. All the old schools and their methods have passed away, and new ones have been substituted in their places. All the early pioneers are gone and their places are being filled by their decendants(sic) Most of the old buildings have been replaced by new ones until very few marks of the early days of Richwood remain.

Now let us look at our lives and notice the changes that have taken place. Having reached the proper age we started to school where by diligent study we passed from one grade to another. We have continued to change till now we are at the last grad where a still greater change than any before awaits us.

After our final day of school life we shall all step into the world where each will chase his "favorite phantom".(sic" ) Some of us may not only become so changed but also estranged from one another, that in future years we will hardly recognize those who have been our associates so long.

Let us hope that this will not be the case with us, and try and prove that we, the class of 1902, will be an exception to this great rule. And that our growth will be as rapid as has been the growth of what is now the present beautiful and industrious village of Richwood.

Re: TOLLS ON THE PENNSYLVANIA TOLL ROADS. Wednesday, October 21, 2001

Query: I am trying to pinpoint the residence of Joshua Green who, as administrator of his mother's estate in Baltimore Co. in 1842, claimed:

Expense on coming down to prove the Will $6.25

Cash paid turnpike road charges going and coming to prove the Will, $6.50

If I knew what the tolls were in I 842, I could calculate how far he traveled to Towson, Baltimore Co., MD to the courthouse. The courthouse is near the York Turnpike.

Answer: It appears that she really needs to know several things....the distance between toll houses is included, which is a biggy, but for any calculations to work she'd have to know how he traveled; if he rode his horse, if he drove a wagon,...these would make a big difference in computing the distance he went. (This is beginning to sound like one of those horrible "story" problems I sweat bullets over in grade school...."if a train leaves the station, heading west...yadda, yadda, yadda)!

(Quoted from the act incorporating the Philadelphia and Lancaster Turnpike Company, approved by Governor Mifflin on 9 April 1792) "Tolls were authorized to be established and collected at the completion of every ten miles of road. The company were empowered to appoint their toll gatherers who had the right to stop any person from passing over the turnpike until they had paid their toll. Tolls were all based on a stretch of ten miles, and so in proportion for a greater or lesser distance, viz.:

For every score of sheep I /8 dollar

For every score of hogs 1/8 dollar

For every score of Cattle 1/4 dollar

For every horse and rider 1/16 dollar (6 1/4 cents)

For every Sulkey, Chair, or Chaise with one horse and two wheels... I /8 dollar

For every Chariot, Coach, Stage, Wagon, Phaeton or Chaise, with 2 horses and four wheels... I /4 dollar

For either of the Carriages last mentioned, with four horses...3/8 dollar

For every other Carriage of pleasure, under whatever name it may go, the like sum, according to the number of wheels and horses drawing the same.

For every Cart or Wagon whose wheels do not exceed the breadth of four inches.. I /8 dollar for each horse drawing the same.

For every Cart or Wagon whose wheels shall exceed in breadth four inches, and not exceed seven inches,... I /I 6 dollar for every horse drawing the same.

For every Cart or Wagon, the breadth of whose wheels shall be more than seven and not more than ten inches, or being of the breadth of seven inches shall roll more than 10 inches,...five cents for every horse drawing the same. There the breadth shall be more than I 0 inches, and not exceed 12 inches, or being 10 shall roll more than I 5 inchesthree cents for every horse.

For every Cart or Wagon where the breadth of wheel shall be more than 12 inches...two cents for every horse drawing the same."

"Between December I and May 1, no wagon with four wheels, having less than four inches breadth of tire was to be loaded over 2 1/2 tons" Between May I and Dec 1, the load limit was about a half a ton more. There were also detailed rules on how many horses could be attached to a carriage: "Nor shall more than eight horses be attached to any carriage whatsoever, used on said road." If more horses than permitted try to pass, "one of the horses attached shall be forfeited to the use of the said Turnpike Company, to se seized and taken by any of their officers or servants, who shall be at liberty to choose which of the said horses they may think proper, excepting the shaft or wheel horse or horses."

"In charging tolls two oxen were estimated as one horse and every mule as equal to one horse."

The act allowed for the increase of tolls if the company wasn't making a 6% profit after two years. The Company had to erect a printed list of their rates.

Drivers were ordered to keep the right hand side in the passing direction.

The fine for obstructing the road, or passing on the left side was two dollars and costs.

This is an interesting provision of the turnpike act: "no toll was to be paid by persons for passing on the road upon the business of their adjoining farms."
